End of Summer
 Get-Together

Dr. Randy L. Hyde

Having written this piece about a month ago, after a wonderful visit with Jim Thweatt, I was planning to run it in this week's issue of The Tidings. Just last night (Monday), I was told that Jim is now in hospice care.

Had a good visit with Jim Thweatt recently. Jim was doing pretty well, though he was quite thin. Since our visit, I understand he's had a tougher time, so please keep him in your prayers. He assured me he has some new medication that has ramped up his appetite a bit. I had tried to visit him before, had called him to see if it was possible for me to come over, but couldn't catch him in his apartment and his voice mail wasn't working. After a few days, he called me. Could I come over? Absolutely.

He was waiting with notes in hand. He wrote down what he wanted to talk with me about, to make sure we got it all in to the conversation. That's our Jim.

The first thing he wanted to talk about was the Farmers Market. He had called his son Tal to come and take him down to the church the previous Saturday morning for the market. Jim was hungry (good!) for some Alberta peaches. "What time did you get there?" I asked. "About ten," he answered. I knew what was coming next. He didn't get any. If you want peaches or tomatoes, you've got to get there early, I counseled him.

"Well, that's my story," Jim said. "No, they had just sold out, and I was really disappointed. But as we were about to leave, Ruth Hagerty came over and knocked on my door window. 'Wait just a minute,' she told me. 'You wait right here 'til I get back.' A few minutes later, here she comes with three beautiful peaches. She shared her peaches with me. Can you believe that? It was one of the kindest things anyone has done for me. In fact, if I were going to preach about it, I'd call it 'Three Peaches in a Brown Paper Sack.'"

Jim also told me about Bob Leckie taking him to the doctor, and then to lunch with Mary at Luby's. Emo Johnson and Edie Watson brought him a meal, and Edie has promised to bring him some homemade tomato soup (I guess Edie did get some tomatoes at the market. They've been about as scarce as peaches). Jim is overwhelmed, he told me, by the kindness of his friends at church. Overwhelmed, maybe, but I don't know why he'd be surprised.

We talked about other things that I'll leave between the two of us, except to say that he has found a contentedness to his situation. He misses Sue terribly, of course. We all do. But he assures me he is where he ought to be (at Andover Place... #618, if you'd like to visit with him). The house on Charleston is now on the market, and of the things his children did not want, items were given either to our church or the Salvation Army. Bob told him we could use his nice lawnmower, so now Michael Hammond doesn't have to struggle to get the church's old mower started. And we needed a wheelbarrow, so Bob took that for us.

Life is lived in chapters, and is filled with transitions. Our friend Jim now finds himself in such a place. But he is strong in faith, if not physically. He did tell me that he often just sits and watches – not TV, he doesn't want the distraction – and it fills his heart with gratitude for all that he has experienced and known.

My visit with Jim made me evermore grateful to be his friend and pastor. One day, I'll no doubt be where he is. My circumstances may not be exactly the same, but I'll be at a place where the things that seem important now won't be. I'll contemplate larger, more eternal, issues. When that time comes, I can only hope to have Jim's faith and strength. And while a good Alberta peach will be just as tasty to me as it is to Jim, that will not be what gives me sustenance and strength. But it might be something to look forward to, don't you think?

PHBC Centennial Update

Our church celebrates its 100th year in 2013 and planning is underway. Four work groups have been formed to work on the celebration. The Centennial Commission groups and their co-leaders are:

- Reunion -- Darrel and Kay Coleman and Judy Moses
- History -- Edwina Mann and Lynn Blagg
- New Traditions -- Kelly Newberg and Whitney Broadway
- Creative Elements -- Chris Smith and Carrey Reynolds

If you are interested in serving, please contact one of the leaders or Joni Lee, Centennial Commission chair.

Centennial Ideas

What would you like to see during the centennial celebration? Do you have ideas? Post your ideas on the bulletin board outside Hicks Hall or place them in the box provided there.

Potluck and Pictures

Sunday, October 16
5:30 p.m.
Hicks Hall

We're kicking off our centennial planning with a celebration potluck. Bring your favorite dish and some favorite pictures from your PHBC years. We'll share some good food and stories. The centennial work group leaders will provide an overview of their teams and there will be time for everyone to share their ideas as we kick off our planning. Come enjoy the fellowship.

Centennial Planning Note

There currently is a balance in the Faith and the Arts designated fund of $3,978.81. It is the intention of the Finance Committee, at the next business meeting on October 26, to ask the church to transfer these funds to the Centennial Planning Commission. The funds would be used for the 2013 Centennial preparation. If you contributed to this fund, have any questions, or want to have input into this recommendation, please contact Jim Cox at 664-3253 or Darrel Coleman at 225-6483.

Pick up a wrapped shoe box in Hicks Hall (or wrap your own), fill it per instructions inside the box, and return to Hicks Hall during the week of November 13-19.

Dear PH Church,
I want to express my love and appreciation to the members of my church. I don't know how long it has been since I was there with you. I read about your activities and wish that I could be there with you.
Thank you to the ones that go to Wednesday night service for remembering me by sending their names and best wishes.
I love my church,
Carrie Mae Parlin

September is the month for giving to State Missions. Please support CBF Arkansas and Dixie Jackson through your gift to missions. Special envelopes are available in the worship guide and elsewhere, or mark your envelope for Missions CBF or Dixie Jackson.

Women's Bible Study will start in October and meet on Thursdays 11:45 to 1 PM on each Thursday except for the 2nd one of each month, to avoid conflict with Young at Heart events. We will meet in the library. Bring a sack lunch. Anne Lea Patterson will lead the study. We already have 2-3 from our Farmers Market who have signed up to attend.

ZUMBA exercise class is each Tuesday evening, 6:30-7:15 in Hicks Hall, moving to the gym soon! You can try the class without obligation for $15. Join this fun workout to a Latin music beat!

Watch for the starting date for a Stretch/Yoga/Pilates class at 6 PM before Zumba. Special rates for church members, and a nice discount if you take both classes.

Our Hillcrest Farmers Market will wrap up on September 24th. What a wonderful season we have enjoyed! Many of the farmers have Fall crops, and have asked if they might continue to sell in October and beyond. We have agreed to allow them to set up on the Cedar Street lot and sell from their trucks. Be sure to stop by and shop!

On October 15th we will set up at the Hillcrest HarvestFest down toward Beechwood and Kavanaugh. Several of our vendors will sell, and we'll have a PHBC table set up too. It's another great opportunity to meet our neighbors. Come by and sit a spell!

Swing Band Reunion will play October 6th and 9th! On Thursday, October 6th the band will represent our church at the Hillcrest First Thursday at 5:30 at Helmich's garage parking lot. On Sunday afternoon, October 9 the band will present a concert at 2:30 PM in Hicks Hall. Don't miss it!

Blessings!
Carolyn
